What the navigation implies is present

Aircraft Overview

14 navigational elements appear in the left navigation seen when "Aircraft" is clicked

339 pages are accessible from this navigation

Two left nav nodes, "Aircraft Registry" and "Programs" navigate the user to different sections of the site

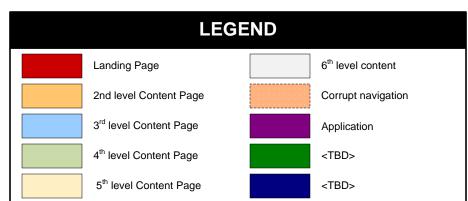

While "Aircraft > Programs" has a significant amount of content, the user cannot access it using "Programs" link

Special Note:

This document contains numerical references in yellow circles:

These are page popularity ranks (based on number of page views for 12 months within this section)

Faa.gov Migration – Air Traffic Sitemap

Revisions

	Document Notes

Air Traffic Overview

13 navigational elements appear in the left navigation seen when "Air Traffic" is clicked

67 pages are accessible from this navigation

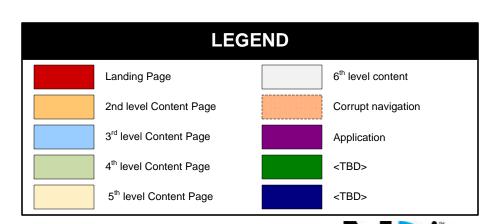

78 pages are accessible from the AeroNav navigation

39 pages are accessible from the Flight Inspection Services navigation

21 pages are accessible from the Separation Standards navigation

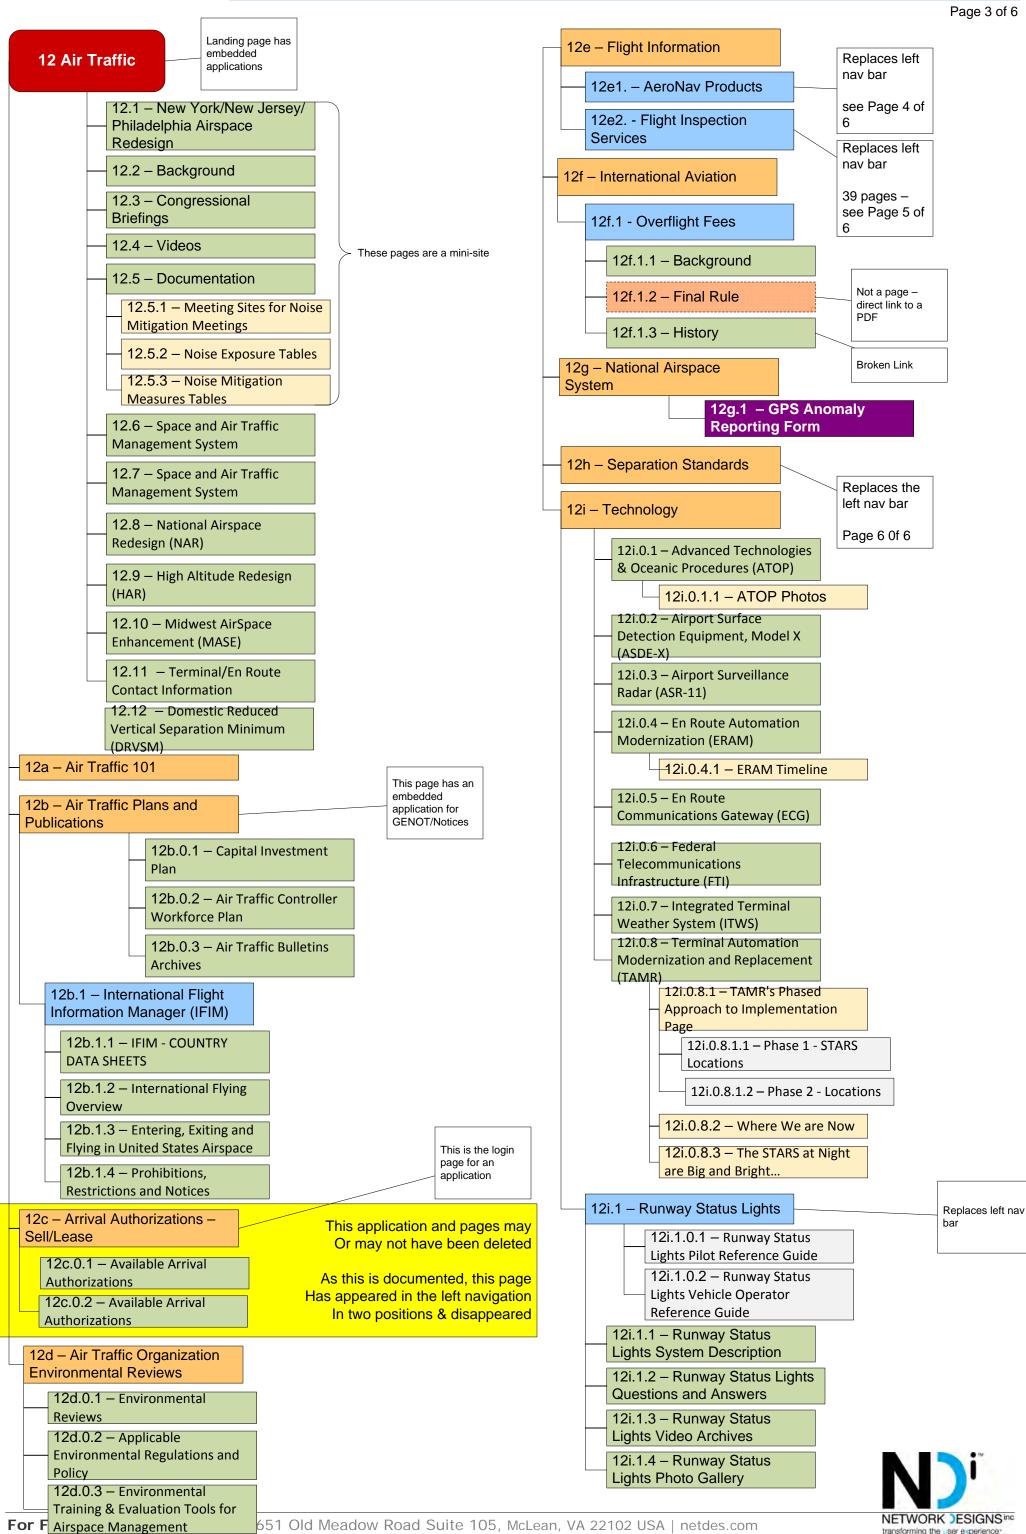

Runway Status Lights also replaces the left navigation – these pages are included in the Primary Site Map

Therefore the user is to infer from these 14 cues that there are 209 pages in this section
